This document demonstrates the use of `\marginchar` kerning for hanging punktuation and hyphenation. The same method can be used to achieve optical margin correction (a font can provide more than one `\marginchar`).

Note that the algorithm deals properly with ligatures (“), `\parindent`, hanging indentation and complex discretionaries (`\discretionary{!}{‘}{!‘}`).

The different break in the penultimate line demonstrates that the `\marginchar` kerning is in fact taken into account during line-breaking.

`\marginchar`= -1
